POT LUCK 3-18-23

Greetings Rockhounds,

Everything is going well for our club. Looks we have a new tenant for the front building as of April 1, 2023. Our reputation as a fun club is growing and we have lots of new members, (See the welcome New Members article elsewhere in this newsletter.) Our latest new member joins us all the way from Pahrump, Nevada!. And lastly we had a very successful field trip to Boron with lots of guests from other So. Cal Clubs.

The annual tailgate is coming up in 10 days and I am pleased to say that Lifetime Member Brett Ward has reappeared and volunteered to take charge. He is standing in for Mark Lantz who is recovering from surgery. We still need help getting everything out to the site, so if you can, please meet at the club at 9:AM, on Thursday March 9th with room in your vehicle. Same goes for Sunday bringing everything back to the club.

Important note: It doesn't look like we will have a food vendor this year, so make sure to bring your own meals and snacks.

Lastly, I will remind everyone of the importance of helping around the club house, and making sure that your reach out to new members and visitors to welcome them and include them in your conversations. I feel strongly that this welcoming attitude makes our club stand out.

Dave Duncan, President

FIELD TRIP REPORTS FROM WAGON MASTER SCOTT GRAY

The FEBRUARY 11, 2023 FIELD TRIP to the Boron area was quite a gathering. I arrived early about 8:30 am, and there were signs of more traffic at the meeting area than I had seen before, as I wandered about, I met a fellow named Tom, who I believe was from the Yucaipa Club and further back in the parking lot were some folks from the Long Beach, California, club. Then some folks from the Sierra Paloma Club came in. There were 27 cars, trucks, and jeeps ready to caravan to the Gephardt Hills Site. I want to personally thank the folks from the Sierra Paloma Rock Club, as it was necessary for me to use some of the photos one of their members took from the trip for our newsletter as our camera malfunctioned. Their photos were on their Facebook page along with a thank you to VVGMC for hosting the event. jb

Above you will see two of our display cases at the club house. All members should know that we offer needed items for lapidary work, and other goodies for members. In the first case you will find vests that the club has made, patches of our logo, same as on bottom left of the forth page, some old VVGMC pinbacks, dop sticks, sand paper sponges and more. The second display case has slabs for sale to club members for only $1.00. This case is always being added to, so check it out!

Haven't paid your 2023 Dues?

If you have, our club thanks you for your support.

For those of you who haven't had a chance yet, please be aware that we will soon be creating our new email list that will only include current members.

So, in order to keep getting newsletters, announcements and reminders in your inbox, please stop by with your cash or check. We would love to see you.

Otherwise you can send your check to our club house at:

VVGMC
15056-B 7th Street
Victorville, CA 92395

Dues for 2023 are $35 for individuals and $45 for couples. Children under 18 are still $10.

Shiny Rocks

By

Pam Trozera

I have always liked shiny rocks ever since I was a child. I bought my first rock tumbler on Amazon. Following the instructions they provided with the machine, the rocks did not come out shiny. I was very disappointed but determined that someday I will figure it out.

At one of our general club meetings, Scott Gray had brought some awesome looking shiny rocks. He was more than willing to teach me the steps to tumble rocks. He wrote down the five stages and talked about what I would need to buy in order to complete my mission. He suggested at the time rockshed.com and told me to watch YouTube videos from Michigan Rocks.

Awesome advice. I purchased more rock tumblers from Harbor Freight. After a long, long time I finally made them. Yip-pee! Long story short. Harbor Freight's tumblers goes through too many belts. Dave let me borrow the club's Covington rock tumbler. It's the best. I used my containers though because I didn't have lots of rocks to tumble.

SUNSHINE

Dave Duncan advised Sunshine that Mark Lantz stopped by the club to say Hi! He is still sore but otherwise recuperating nicely from his surgery. He should be back with us in a month or two.

Please, if you or a member are not feeling well or is celebrating a special occasion, please contact, Lorie Cunningham at lorielogic@comcast.net.

I would recommend you watch "Rock Tumbling Tutorial for Rotary Tumblers and ceramic Media by Michigan Rocks". pt

MARCH BIRTHSTONE AQUAMARINE

Aquamarine. Named after the color of seawater, aquamarine is the blue to blue-green member of the beryl family. Readily available and moderately priced, the March birthstone makes an excellent jewelry stone. The name "aquamarine" comes from the Latin for "seawater", and the stones were thought to protect seafarers.

Where the green marble was mined.

Thanks to Jim Fosse, webmaster for the VVGMC, for providing this article located in Desert Magazine August 1958. Written By EUGENE L. CONROTTO. Portions gleaned by Editor. Jb. Tie in to tailgate show field trip.

THE 1890s when the management of the old Palace Hotel in San Francisco was seeking the most attractive marble that could be found to redecorate the interior of the palatial hostelry, among the stone selected was a handsome sulphur yellow and lime green marble veined in chocolate and cream—from the Verde Antique quarry 17 miles northeast of Victorville, on California's Mojave Desert. The old quarry, located on the treeless highlands which slope down to the Mojave River, is no longer being worked commercially, but it remains a popular hunting ground for rockhounds in quest of attractive cutting stone. The quarry's name was derived from the ancients' term for dark green marble veined in black—Verde Antique. The Italian marble's hue is much deeper than the marble found on the California desert.

Marble, because of its close-grained hardness and ability to take a beautiful polish, is much esteemed by the amateur lapidaries who make book ends, spheres, desk sets and similar large pieces from it. And too, this rich stone is having a revival in interior home decorating.

The marble was laid down as limestone in the Late Paleozoic era, presumably during the vast areas of the Southwest. This was about 200,000,000 years ago—the age of amphibians and floral life. The Victorville area was the scene of much volcanic action at the close of this era, and heat and pressure from this volcanism compacted the impure limestone into marble. The impurities in the bedding gave the stone its distinctive color patterns. Heat and pressure also explain why no fossil remains are found in the metamorphized stone.

The layer of verde antique atop the hill is from three to six feet in width. The quarries were driven into the side of the limestone bed and therefore one must go sideways—not into the face of the quarries—for marble. Here the miners blasted off the overburden and threw it into the dump. The area where the cars were parked was strewn with huge limestone boulders only a few years ago. Nearly all of this easy-to-get-to material has been chipped down and carried off. Those who search for verde antique from now on are faced with a steep climb, which will greatly limit the amount of material one person can take home. A collector who enjoys hiking will find this area one well worth visiting.

On the same mountain flank, but further east, is the Three Colored Marble Quarry. This working, often confused in the old mining reports and even today with the Verde Antique, produced a stone of white irregular dolomite fragments in a green and black matrix of dolomitic limestone. As far as color is concerned, it is somewhat inferior to the Verde Antique marble. The Three Colored Quarry was worked between 1915 and 1918.

Editor: jb. As part of the growth of Victor Valley Gem & Mineral Club. It is my plan to incorporate into the newsletter, as well as our hopefully soon renewed Website, with subjects that surround us on a daily basis as we hunt for our treasures in the desert. Last month we introduced our library to the members. As we go along, history, desert flowers, wildlife and of course rocks will be looked at in different light here on the pages of the Bulletin. Below you will find some wonderful photographs by Ross Quinn of the floral blooms that graced our presence while on the hunt. Thank You Ross! We welcome submissions of your photos / articles on these subjects providing they are from the Mohave Desert where we visit often.

FROM THE BOOK CORNER

By Scott Gray: Books You Should Know About: The 1st In A Series About Good Books On A Great Subject!

Exploring And Mining Gems And Gold In The West is a informative and sometimes humorous account of Mr. Rynerson's experiences in the gem and mining industries at the turn of the 20th century. Told in a first person perspective it is essentially a diary like account of Fred's adventures: his encounters, discoveries, wins, and losses during the short lived gem boom of Southern California when the world famous finds of tourmaline, kunzite, topaz, and aquamarine put California on the map as a world class contender in the gem market.

Rynerson spent many years working in famous mines like the Himalaya and the Esmeralda and cut the stones that came from them. His reminisces on learning to facet and cutting tricky stones like kunzite are as interesting as the accounts of his time spent underground recovering world class pink tourmaline by candlelight. Rynerson was truly a jack of all trades. He ran oil rigs in Bakersfield, quarried marble in the Colorado Desert, double jacked in copper mines, and spent time prospecting for gold in Washington and Arizona. There are encounters with bandits, rattlesnakes, floods, claim jumpers, and more. While out of print, this book cans still be found online for around fifteen bucks and up.

I'd consider this a great read for anyone who is interested in gemstones, lapidary, prospecting, and the early history of Southern California during it's gem mining heyday..

Congratulations to our Vice President, Steve Rucker on his retirement from Military Service and we should thank him for his years of service!

Aside from being an instructor, Steve is a man of many talents. Steve loves to cut rocks, but when he's not cutting, you can bet he's grinding, polishing, rocks, designing a setting or doodling some art work.

Such was the case last month when at the club board meeting, Steve announced and showed a wonderful design for a new Victor Valley Gem and Mineral Club T-shirt.

STEVE RUCKER

The board has approved the design which is titled the Bucket Brigade showing a woman rockhound with bucket, and pick in hand, with a desert background, club name and Est. 1947. Nice job Steve!

The design is shown below. It will be available to club members first and what is left over will be presented the upcoming tailgate at Stoddard Wells March 10, 11, & 12, 2023..

The design is large on the back of a quality tee shirt, in an off white color that matches the theme of the design. The design is repeated on the front left breast area.

All shirts will be $25.00. Payable in CASH or CHECK made payable to VVGMC. No credit cards

Sizes are:

MEDIUM
